Q. I've been told that old issues of the National Geographic magazine are worth a lot of money. Is this so?
T.R.S., Long Beach.

A. Copies of the familiar, yellow-bordered scientific and pictorial magazine dated before 1904 are valuable — some issues are worth up to $50 — says a spokesman for the National Geographic Society in Los Angeles. The value of the magazine, which was first published in 1889 as an austere, newsprint journal, is determined by its rarity, age and articles. Even some relatively recent issues are worth from $2 to $4 because of special articles, the spokesman says. For specific prices on issues, you can write the society library, 17th and M streets, Washington, D.C.

Remember Network Radio?

Q. Can you help me get pictures of Amos and Andy?
K.K., Seal Beach.

Action Line

A. You can have two pictures, one of the original radio team of Freeman Gosden and Charles Correll and one of the television trio of Spencer Williams, Alvin Childress and Tim Moore. Gosden and Correll started out as a singing team, then in 1926 went on WGN in Chicago as "Sam 'n' Henry" using Negro dialect. Two years later when they changed to station WMAZ, they took the names of Amos and Andy. In the show, Gosden played not only Amos Jones, but also the Kingfish (George Stevens), Lightnin' Brother Crawford, Fluke Harris and Frederick Montgomery Gwindell. Correll portrayed the lazy and blustering Andrew Hogg Brown. In 1951, the program went on television with a cast of Negro professional actors that Gosden and Correll spent two years selecting. On television, Williams played the romantically involved Andy, Childress was the logic-minded Amos and Moore was the roguish Kingfish. Memorabilia of the Amos and Andy show is housed in the Rare Book Room of USC's Doheny Library. At last report, Gosden, a sometime golfing partner of President Eisenhower, lived in Palm Springs. Correll, who suffered a heart attack a year ago, lives in Beverly Hills.

Boatless Motor

Q. Last August, my husband and I were winning contestants on television's Newlywed Game. We won a boat, trailer and outboard motor, but so far have received only the motor. We've written, but had no response. Can you do something? M.J.B., Seal Beach.

A. ACTION LINE contacted Leilani Jackson, who heads publicity for the show. She says your prizes have probably been delayed at the manufacturer's plant. "If the contestants will call me personally, I'd be glad to talk to them," she says. "Sometimes there is a little wait on some of the prizes, but winners always receive them in the end." You may call Miss Jackson at Barris Production Co., 469-9080, in Los Angeles.

Island Freeway

Q. Can you tell me if the Terminal Island Freeway is to be extended north from Willow Street to the Sand Diego Freeway? My home is in the original right of way as planned several years ago. I have heard that the old plan has been scrapped, and would appreciate any information ACTION LINE could give me. V.M., Long Beach.

Action Line

A. This freeway may be extended as far north as Artesia Boulevard to merge with the planned Industrial or Artesia Freeway. The Terminal Island Freeway is included in one of three alternate plans now on the drawing boards in the department of route planning of the State Division of Highways, according to a spokesman. Up to now, the Terminal Island Freeway has been largely ignored because it is not a part of the State Highway System. It was built during World War II at the request of the War Department, and at the end of the war was turned over to the cities of Long Beach and Los Angeles.

Old Annual

Q. I graduated from Long Beach Polytechnic High School in the class of 1938. I was unable to buy a yearbook at that time, but would like to buy or borrow one now in order to have photos made of some pictures in the book. Could ACTION LINE help me obtain one? A.R.H., Long Beach.

A. Yes, although there are no yearbooks available for sale, G. B. Garcia, Poly principal, says he will be glad to lend you the school's copy. You may make arrangements with him by calling the school at 435-6321.

SOUND OFF!

Last summer, I bought a home in Long Beach in the Los Altos area. A couple months later, I received a letter from the Los Altos Association informing me that by purchasing a home in this particular area, I was automatically a member of this association and that dues in the amount of $5 would be due Nov. 1 and delinquent Feb. 2. The letter noted that a lien against my property could be filed if the dues were not paid. I was never informed of this prior to my purchase and I can find nothing in my deed referring to this organization. I feel if I had been personally invited to join, told what the association's functions were and received an explanation of how the dues were used, I probably would have joined. But, what is this country coming to if you are arbitrarily told what organizations you must belong to and have liens filed against your property if you refuse? J. E. M., Long Beach.

Reagan Hits UC Protests

Urges Stranger Action Against Demonstrators

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan Friday urged University of California regents and chancellors to take stronger action against campus demonstrators.

After hearing several chancellors report on recent disturbances on their campuses, Reagan said, "I can't help but believe that we have been taking the sorry road of appeasement and that leads to more and more of the same."

Reagan was particularly disturbed by a report that students of the independent left had flown a North Vietnamese flag in the "free speech" area of the San Diego campus on the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution. The incident was called to the attention of the regents in a letter from Assemblyman John Stull, R-Leucadia.

THE LETTER, read at the regents' meeting, urged that disciplinary action be taken against the students and campus Chancellor John S. Galbraith.

Commenting on the letter, Galbraith said that although he disapproved of the students' conduct he could not take action against them. He had consulted university lawyers and found they had not violated any laws or campus regulations, he said.

Reagan described the display of the North Vietnamese flag on campus as an act of "bad taste and cruelty." He noted that U.S. soldiers were dying in the fight against the North Vietnamese.

Reagan called on the regents to show their "repugnance" against the display of this flag.

The governor also made it clear he was dissatisfied with the way university officials are handling students involved in the current demonstrations on the Berkeley campus. He said that if these demonstrators had invaded a private business instead of Sproul Hall they would quickly have been found in violation of the law.

REAGAN URGED regents to investigate the possibility of formulating stricter standards of discipline on campus.

Immediately after making his statement and without waiting for comments, Reagan left the meeting saying he had another appointment. The regents took no action on his suggestions.

The regents also agreed to explore the possibility of presenting to the voters a 1968 bond issue to finance the university's capital needs.

DEFENSE ASKS CONTINUANCE

Kirschke Attorneys to Bring 'Expert Criminalist' to Trial

The marathon trial of suspended Deputy Dist. Atty. Jack Kirschke recessed until Tuesday afternoon to allow defense attorneys to obtain additional "expert testimony."

Defense attorney Albert C. S. Ramsey requested the continuance Friday to allow an "expert criminalist from Northern California" to examine the evidence and give his opinion.

Ramsey said the expert — whose name was withheld from public record — would fly to Los Angeles Monday night and would have his report ready by the Tuesday afternoon session.

Meanwhile, during the morning session Friday, a key alibi witness testified he was only trying to get a Long Beach Yacht Club Jolly Girl to quit asking him questions when he told her he was asleep at the time he was supposed to have seen Kirschke.

Jean Pierre Ledet, 24, was recalled as the defense's first rebuttal witness after the prosecution rested its case following testimony by 14 rebuttal witnesses.

In the prosecution rebuttal, two members of the Jolly Girls' informal social drinking group, Mrs. Margie Herfter and Mrs. Patricia Katz, testified Ledet told about the sleeping incident while waiting to testify at a grand jury hearing.

Mrs. Herfter quoted Ledet as saying in the waiting room, "I don't know why I am here, I was asleep at the time I was supposed to have seen Kirschke."

Friday Ledet testified Mrs. Herfter had been questioning him about whether he was for or against Kirschke and he made the remark as a "quiet way of saying 'I'm not going to say any more.'"

Mrs. Katz testified Ledet, a former Yermo gas station attendant, made a similar remark to his co-worker, Dennis Baily, 19, as they waited for an elevator shortly after the hearing.

However, Ledet said, "I

Red Mortars Pound Column of Marines

Combined News Services

SAIGON — Dug-in North Vietnamese soldiers pounded a column of U.S. Marine amphibious tractors near the Demilitarized Zone Friday with mortar rounds and rifle and machine gun fire. One Marine was killed and 13 wounded. It was the second successive day that Marines clashed with North Vietnamese south of the DMZ. A U.S. spokesman said the Marine amtracks were sweeping along the China Sea coast east of Gio Linh when the enemy raked the Leatherneck vehicles with bullets and dropped about 60 mortar rounds. The Marine amtracks wheeled and returned the fire. In addition to reports Friday on the new action around Dak To and Con Thien, recent scenes of some of the war's bloodiest fighting, the U.S. Command said American troops awaited fresh enemy assaults in another bitterly contested section near Loc Ninh. The reports suggested the Communists were following familiar tactics — attacking in border areas near their supply bases with the aim of diverting allied forces from vital rural pacification work and perhaps scoring an important morale boosting victory. In Saigon, the U.S. Embassy said data compiled by a new computer system shows that the South Vietnamese government has extended control over a million more rural Vietnamese this year. It said two-thirds of the country's 17 million persons now are living in "secure" areas.

'Tribunal' Rules U.S. Guilty

ROSKILDE, Denmark — Bertrand Russell's so-called war crimes tribunal has found the U.S. guilty of genocide in Vietnam. The 14 leftist intellectuals from 10 countries who comprise the tribunal also found Japan, the Philippines and Thailand guilty of "complicity" in helping the U.S. in the war. The tribunal, sponsored by Lord Russell, the British philosopher, has no official standing and was formed with the announced purpose of condemning the U.S. war effort. Nearly 100 persons, including several former American servicemen, made statements against U.S. policy during its 12-day meeting there and another session in Sweden last May.

U.S. Denies Talks With Cong

SAIGON — The U.S. Embassy vigorously denies a report that American and Viet Cong officials had met in Saigon or ever planned such a conference. An embassy statement said the reports, published by two Saigon newspapers and another wire service, were "false." The embassy said it was "equally false" that U.S. diplomats had anything to do with the resignation of Brig. Gen. Nguyen Ngoc Loan, the chief of South Vietnam's national police. Loan, a central figure in what is described as a power struggle between President Nguyen Van Thieu and Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky, resigned Friday but the resignation was not accepted.

The U.S. Embassy said allegations about planned or actual meetings between American and Viet Cong officials "are false... the U.S. Embassy would, of course, not undertake any such contacts without the knowledge of the government of Vietnam."

Panama's Ruling Bloc Collapses

PANAMA — The Panamanian government coalition has collapsed, and with it virtually any chance for early approval of proposed treaties with the U.S. on the Panama Canal, the New York Times Service revealed. Four parties and part of a fifth have deserted the administration of President Marco A. Robles to back the presidential candidacy of his archfoe, Arnulfo Arias, in an election next May 12. As a result, barring any break in the national front that has been formed, Arias appears to be an easy winner over the administration candidate, David Samudio, a former minister of finance, whose own Liberal Party has broken in two. After three years of talks, the U.S. concluded three treaties with the Robles administration in June.

OAS Ousts High Official

WASHINGTON — Dr. Jose A. Mora, secretary general of the Organization of American States, Friday suspended "indefinitely" Luis Raul Betances, a Dominican national, as administrative director of the hemisphere organization. Betances was formally accused Thursday of having threatened Enrique del Rosario, Dominican delegate to the OAS, with loss of his post and other political reprisals unless he switched his vote to support Eduardo Riter Aislan of Panama as the next OAS secretary general.

4 Lawsuits Challenge Hershey's Draft Order

NEW YORK — The American Civil Liberties Union filed lawsuits in four cities Friday challenging the draft reclassification of six young men who had protested U.S. policy in Vietnam. Two of the lawsuits, brought on behalf of clergymen who had turned in their draft cards in protest against the war, were joined by the National Council of Churches. The council said it would also enter a pending case involving a Roman Catholic priest. The lawsuits were aimed at a recent recommendation by the Selective Service director, Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, that those who interfered with draft procedures or military recruitment be speedily conscripted.

In a letter on Oct. 26 to draft boards across the country, General Hershey recommended that students or other registrants who violated the Selective Service law lose their deferments, be declared and then drafted as soon as possible. The lawsuits, described as the first in a series, were filed in federal courts in New York City, Camden, N.J., Salt Lake City and Seattle.

Tides Batter Oregon Coast

WASHINGTON — The nation's capital staged a quick comeback Friday from its heaviest November snowstorm on record, but many suburban Washington schools remained closed. An autumn storm which battered the Eastern seaboard between Washington and New York claimed 13 lives—10 in Pennsylvania, two in New Jersey and one in New York. Temperatures in some areas dropped below zero. Elsewhere, the highest tides of the year hit the Oregon coast, boosted to 10.1 feet by winds up to 45 m.p.h. Streets were flooded in the resort town of Cannon Beach. In the mountains, most highways were covered with snow. Snow up to four inches in depth covered two-thirds of the Rocky Mountains, and Michigan's isolated Keweenaw peninsula had 18 inches of snow.

Senate OKs School Aid Test

WASHINGTON — The Senate voted Friday to permit court tests to determine whether the Constitution's provision for separation of church and state bars federal aid to church-affiliated schools. By a vote of 71 to 0, it attached an amendment authorizing such suits to a bill which would extend for three years the 1965 Elementary and Secondary School Act, the biggest program of federal aid to education. The amendment's sponsor, Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., said he thinks grants to parochial and other religious schools are unconstitutional under the doctrine calling for separation of church and state. His amendment would also permit suits in other federal aid programs — for example, an anti-poverty project with church affiliation. Ervin argued that the federal courts have declined to act on many cases involving the issue on the ground that the person bringing the suit could not claim sufficient interest to have a standing in court. Ervin said he does not want to scuttle the aid to elementary and secondary schools, but that a legal disaster could occur unless his amendment becomes law.

D.C. Crime Drive Launched

WASHINGTON — The District of Columbia's new municipal government, in office four weeks, made its first important move Friday to reduce crime in the nation's capital. The city administration acted under White House pressure to attack immediately and boldly a problem here that has national political implications. Mayor Walter E. Washington, a Negro appointed by the President, announced the selection of Patrick V. Murphy to the new post of director of public safety. In effect, civilian superintendent of police. He is white and 47 years old and is regarded as a liberal. The mayor also announced a 21-point "crime control program," to take effect immediately. Its main thrust will be to strengthen and streamline the undermanned Washington metropolitan police department and to engage citizen support.

62 Mothers Arrested at School

NEW YORK — Sixty-two mothers, most of them holding children by the hand, were arrested Friday after they pushed through police lines to enter a Bronx school and then refused to leave the building. The women, who are opposed to the transfer of their children to schools outside the neighborhood, were attempting to continue a sit-in at Public School 115 that began on Monday. The women were not booked but given summonses to appear in court next Friday to answer charges of trespassing.

Campus Backs Recruiters 7 to 1

LOS ANGELES — Students at UCLA have voted 5 to 4 against an immediate cease-fire and withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam and 7 to 1 against prohibiting officials of war-related industries from conducting job interviews on campus. The turnout of 9,978 student voters Thursday was equal to 36 per cent of UCLA's total enrollment and was nearly twice the number that cast ballots in previous student referendums. Not every issue on the referendum was voted on by all who cast ballots. On the Vietnam issue, 5,298 students voted against withdrawal or a cease-fire while 4,275 favored this course. On the recruiting issue, the voting was 7,447 against the ban and only 1,773 in favor of it.

No Steel Price Hike Reaction

NEW YORK — The U.S. Steel Corp. is adding $5 a ton to the price of some of its light, flat-rolled products, beginning Dec. 15. There was no immediate comment from the White House on this latest in a series of price increases under-way since early this year.

Chrysler Recalls 8,000 Autos

DETROIT — Chrysler Corp. is recalling more than 8,000 cars for inspection by dealers for possible defects. All are 1968 models. Chrysler about 8,000 Plymouth Fury, Dodge Polara, Dodge Monaco and Chrysler cars will be inspected for a possible restriction in their automatic speed control vacuum hose. Chrysler also is recalling 200 Plymouth Barracuda cars for possible front suspension defects.

Army Surrenders to EX-Pfc. Smith

Combined News Services

GI Joe Smith won his personal war with the Army.

Pfc. Smith, who spent 18 months of his two-year duty tour at home awaiting orders, mustered a brigade of lawyers at San Francisco to seek a writ of habeas corpus on grounds he was being held in the Army illegally.

As the attorneys marched into federal court, the Army surrendered. A spokesman announced Smith would be discharged next week. "I think it is wonderful that I can get out," Smith said jubilantly.

Smith, 23, worked as a logger in his Northern California hometown of Brownsville while awaiting transfer orders. When his tour of duty was up last June, he notified the Army he wanted out.

The Army promptly put Smith back into uniform and stationed him at the San Francisco Presidio.

"I'll just go back home, I guess," Smith said. "I don't know what I'll do when I get there. I guess I'll just go back into the woods since that's all the work I've ever done since I was 17."

Marshall Krause, an American Civil Liberties Union attorney representing Smith, said the petition for a writ would not be withdrawn. "We will insist on his immediate release," he said.

Smith, drafted in June 1965, went on a 30-day leave in December 1965, expecting transfer to Southeast Asia. "Your port call date of 28 Dec. 65 has been canceled. Repeat, has been canceled," read a telegram from Ft. Hood, Tex. "Special orders reflecting a new P-C date will follow."

The orders never came. Smith, tired of fishing and hunting, got a job as a logger earning about $130 a week. His wife drew an Army allotment of $85.20 a month.

"I'm no angel," Smith admitted Friday. "But still the Army can't charge me with anything. All I did was follow orders."

FOR STAFF

President Johnson stopped by briefly at an afternoon party given by his daughter, Lynda, and her fiancé, Marine Capt. Charles Robb, for about 100 members of the White House staff — from butlers to telephone operators.

Mrs. Johnson joined in the receiving line. The young couple gave everyone an autographed copy of a picture that was taken of them the day after their engagement was announced.

NO SAHL

Comedian Mort Sahl failed to appear at the opening of his show "An Evening with Mort Sahl" at the East 74th Street Theatre in New York, Friday night. Sahl was to have performed some of his own sketches with the help of about three actors before an expected opening night crowd of 299. The show was called off and money was returned to ticket holders.

REJOICING

Hundreds of mourners turned out in Kansas City Friday for funeral services for Primitivo Garcia, who gave his life defending his English teacher who was being molested by teen-age thugs.

Garcia, 23, a Mexican immigrant who was working toward U.S. citizenship, was shot in the abdomen the night of Nov. 15 as he ran to the aid of Mrs. Margaret Kindermann after a night school class. He died Tuesday.

"We are rejoicing because Primitivo Garcia lived our Lord's words, 'Greater love than this no man hath than he lay down his life for a friend,'" said Bishop Charles Helmsing at the Mass.

"We normally sympathize with the mother, brothers and sisters who have lost a member of the family. But this morning we congratulate the family of such a brother."

Mrs. Kindermann and her husband were among the mourners. An estimated 600 overflowed the old limestone Sacred Heart Church building and about 200 attended graveside services at Calvary Cemetery.

Preliminary hearings against three youths on assault charges are scheduled next week.

PROMOTED

Secret Service agent Clint J. Hill, who was Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy's protector during her husband's assassination, has been made President Johnson's chief bodyguard.

Hill, 35, succeeds Thomas Lemuel (Lem) Johns in a series of promotions announced by Secret Service Director James J. Rowley. Johns will be assistant director for all protective forces, succeeding Rufus W. Youngblood, who will be deputy director and second in command of the service.

When President John F. Kennedy was shot dead in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963, Hill leaped onto the rear of the presidential limousine to try to protect Mrs. Kennedy. Youngblood, Johnson's bodyguard at that time, threw himself onto the vice president until his limousine arrived behind that of Kennedy at Parkland Hospital. He was replaced by Johns last year.

Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., filed a motion in U.S. District Court Friday for a summary judgment in his conspiracy and libel suit against columnists Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson.

The motion is to be heard Dec. 12. Dodd, who was censured by the Senate last June 22 for personal use of political funds, filed a suit May 6 against Pearson and Anderson asking for a $5-million judgment. He later scaled that down to $2 million and asked for a speedy trial.

The motion filed Friday however, said that to require a trial of the entire case is unnecessary and unwarranted in the light of the evidence already developed, adding that Dodd has been put to "almost ruinous expense in meeting the scandalous charges" published by the columnists.

To put Dodd "to further prolonged pretrial proceedings and to a needless trial could well have the effect of freeing the defendants from liability for their own wrongs, not because they are innocent but because the plaintiff simply could not afford the prosecution further," the motion said.

BECK AIDS

Former teamster Union President Dave Beck, in good health at 73, said Friday his Seattle area business activities now include a health and accident insurance company, Worldwide Insurance Services. Beck has been active in land development since December 1964 when he finished a 2½ year sentence at the McNeil Island federal penitentiary. He was convicted for income tax violations.

The new indictment superseded an eight-count indictment lodged against Gebhard last September.

Aerojet Plant in Watts Shatters Ghetto Myths

By JIM McCAULEY
From Our L.A. Bureau

The biggest new Watts industry, an Aerojet plant that turns out Army hospital tents, has shattered ghetto employment myths.

The 1967 success story of the Aerojet-owned Watts Manufacturing Co. was described glowingly Friday to a meeting of the Interracial Council for Business Opportunity.

Daniel A. Kimball, executive committee chairman at Aerojet-General Corp., told how the Watts plant employment had climbed to 500 workers — double the number on the payroll in June.

Kimball's address to the council unveiled facts that will force many employers to revamp their concepts on ghetto-area hiring.

The myth: Ghetto dwellers really don't want to work.

Aerojet's Watts Experience: In the first six months after the plant opened this year, 5,000 ghetto-area residents applied for work. "All they needed was a little encouragement," said Kimball.

The myth: Ghetto areas must look to philanthropy in big industry to land new plants.

Aerojet's Watts Experience: "We located there not out of philanthropy, but because we wanted to make money and were looking for a site in a labor surplus area," said Kimball. Aerojet expects to break even on its Watts operation in its initial year, and hopes to make a profit in 1968.

The myth: You can't hire ghetto workers without facing a plant security problem.

Aerojet's Watts Experience: Pilferage at the new Watts facility is lower than at other Aerojet plants.

The myth: You must screen ghetto applicants carefully so you don't hire any with police records—a personnel device that rules out jobs for many.

Aerojet's Watts Experience: The plant works efficiently even though half the workers have police records. Potential skill counts on hiring.

The myth: The turnover will kill you in a ghetto area, and firing a Negro could lead to a riot in this racially troubled era.

Aerojet's Watts Experience: Aerojet has hired 1,000 persons to fill 500 jobs. Most of resigning found even better jobs—because of new skills. Some 120 were fired.

Kimball said most ghetto job applicants "suspect the hiring system." The vast majority were unskilled and required training. Some couldn't even fill out application forms without help—but still made good on the job.

AMONG THOSE at the Watts plant is a man who previously had been jailed three times for armed robbery. He is now a foreman in charge of 22 men.

One mother of nine children had been on public assistance for 10 years. She is now so efficient as a sewing-machine operator that she earns over-scale.

One 33-year-old woman was on parole from a five-year sentence for a narcotics offense. She became a sewing machine operator, later resigned to become a counselor for a social agency.

Kimball hopes to expand Watts Manufacturing Co. next year if more contracts can be landed.

Rodman C. Rockefeller co-chairman of the council and oldest son of the New

DANIEL A. KIMBALL

York governor, also related progress elsewhere.

Zerex is setting up a ghetto-area plant in Rochester, N.Y. In Newark, N.J., a group of small Negro businessmen is being counseled how to plan a new shopping center in an area burned out by summer riots.

Rockefeller called for raising a $2 million fund to broaden the council's program of helping ghetto residents get into small business.

"The need is much greater than the effort put forth," said Rockefeller.

Judge Removed from Murder Case

Torrance Superior Court Judge Allen Miller Friday was disqualified from trying a former Black Muslim for the "laughing murder" of a father of nine.

A fellow judge held that Judge Miller had already made up his mind that Ronald Clifford Harris, 25, was innocent of the May 2 murder of Sidney T. Raycraft. The father was stabbed 30 times in the head and chest by three assailants as he attempted to walk across the street to his Windsor Hills home. Witnesses said the three laughed after Raycraft's body slumped to the ground.

Judge Walter Evans, a Mono County judge who has been sitting on the Pasadena Superior Court bench, made the ruling Friday after hearing a prosecution plea that Judge Miller was biased in Harris' behalf.

The case was transferred to Superior Court Judge Newell Barrett's court with pretrial motions scheduled for Jan. 11.

Harris' brother, Lanners Lutt Harris, 28, is accused of the actual murder. He is scheduled for trial Jan. 15.

Oil Firms' Tax Bills Cut; Schools to Suffer

By BOB GEIVET

Orange County Supervisors Friday chopped almost $3 million of the tax bill of 12 producing oil companies who protested 1967-68 fiscal year valuations.

The reduction will mean income cuts to most school districts in the county, to at least nine cities, the county and a host of special districts.

County Assessor Andrew Hinshaw approved reduction of $28 million in the assessment against the oil companies, leaving their assessed valuations at $99.4 million.

The assessment stands at about $9 million above last year.

Hinshaw recommended

the reductions to surprised supervisors, who were sitting as a board of equalization. They had before them a total 167 protests filed by the 12 companies.

It was the largest reduction ever made in the county's assessment role, and represents the largest amount of taxes wiped off the books in a single fiscal year.

More than $1 million was lost to the unified school districts, about $484,000 to elementary districts, approximately $485,000 of the county and the remainder to city special districts.

Hinshaw said his office changed the valuations against the mineral rights of the oil producers on the basis of a state board of equalization directive last spring.

He said it called for a 30 per cent increase, but his office jumped the increases to about 50 per cent.

PROTESTS FLOODED in from the oil companies and a series of conferences began late in July and extended through November.

The Board of Equalization's hearing was routine in that Hinshaw recommended the reductions.

He said he did so because the State Board of Equalization notified him that the mineral rights should not be increased.

Oil is produced in Huntington Beach, Newport Beach, Seal Beach, La Habra, Fullerton, Placentia, Brea and Anaheim.

Special districts in those cities would be affected. Huntington Beach High School district will lose the largest amount—$415,439.

Phone Co. Asks Hike in Rates

General Telephone Co. Friday asked the California Public Utilities Commission for a rate increase amounting to $46 million annually.

Richard L. Ohlson, the company's vice president for revenue requirements, said it is the first request for a general rate increase in 10 years.

He listed payroll cost increases of 129 per cent, tax rises of 108 per cent and a 41 per cent per telephone increase in investment.

"Every effort has been made over the years to provide the best telephone service at the lowest possible cost, and this continues to be our objective," Ohlson said.

Rapist Sentenced to Gas Chamber

Convicted rapist Robert Emmett Thornton, whose case resulted in an unprecedented court hearing on the constitutionality of California's death penalty, Friday was formally sentenced to die in the gas chamber.

Thornton, formerly of Bellflower, was convicted last April of violating the state's "Little Lindbergh Law" in a sex attack on a middle-aged woman he kidnaped from a San Gabriel cafe.

He was also convicted of attacking two teen-aged girls.

Superior Court Judge Herbert V. Walker, who ruled Monday the death penalty did not violate either the California or U.S. Constitution, passed formal sentence on Thornton, who prosecutors said made Caroly Chessman — executed in 1960 — "look like a choir boy."

ping center, raped her and robbed her of $5.

The second teen-ager was attacked in a La Puente automatic laundry, where Thornton committed acts of sexual perversion. He attempted robbery, but she had no money.

The jury had already recommended Thornton die in the gas chamber.

Thornton, who lived at 9201 Compton Blvd., had his sentence delayed when the American Civil Liberties Union appealed his case on grounds the death penalty was "cruel and unusual punishment," forbidden by the U.S. Constitution.

didn't make that statement. I read this in the paper and it was actually funny."

Ledet never repeated comments under oath about being asleep and has always maintained both before the grand jury and during the 13-week trial that he saw Kirschke "prior to 4 a.m." at the gas station 150 miles from Long Beach on the morning Kirschke's wife and her lover Bill Drankhan were murdered in the Kirschkes' Naples apartment.

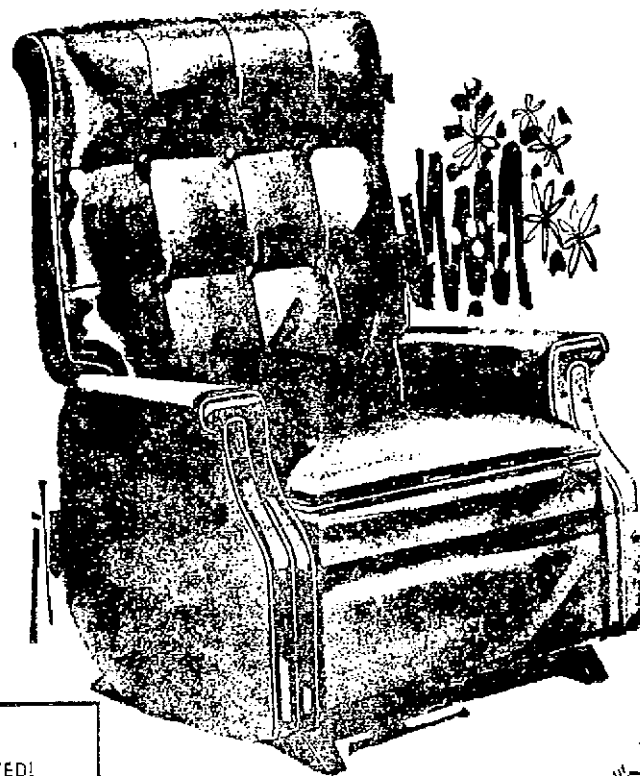

Baily, who followed Ledet as the second defense rebuttal witness, substantiated Ledet's statement about Mrs. Herfter and told the six-man, six-woman jury: "She kept bugging him trying to find out why we were here."

He also denied any knowledge of the statement allegedly made at the elevator.

Firm's Executives Killed in Robbery

NEW YORK (UPI) — The president and vice president of an electrical company were shot Friday after their killer and two accomplices completed a $6,000 payroll robbery without resistance, police reported. The president died of a bullet wound in the head fired at point blank range.

As one gunman coldly fired a bullet into the head of Nathan Leonard, 59, and another slug into the chest of Harold Abrams, 50, an accomplice sprayed the payroll office of the Leonard Electrical Co. with shotgun blasts. At least two other employees escaped injury in the apparently unmotivated shooting spree.

Police quoted witnesses as saying neither Leonard, president of the firm, nor any other employees offered resistance to the robbers.

Leonard was pronounced dead at the scene. Abrams, the firm's vice president, was listed in serious condition.

Two men, in whose house police said the bank loot was found within minutes of the robbery, were taken into custody when they appeared in court for sentencing on other charges.

The car used in the robbery was found in a parking lot near the bank. Police found the body of its owner, Emil Osbeck, 66, a Grand Rapids housepainter, stuffed in the trunk.

An autopsy was scheduled to determine the cause of his death but a preliminary examination indicated he had been strangled, police said.

Convicted Twice in 'Cure' Case

New York Times Service

LOS ANGELES — Dr. Marvin Phillips, 38, a chiropractor, was convicted for a second time of second-degree murder Friday in connection with the 1961 cancer death of an 8-year-old girl.

In what has been widely viewed as a landmark case in jurisprudence, the murder charge was based on a state law holding that a death incident to the commission of a felony is murder. The felony alleged was grand theft, in Phillips charging the victim's parents $739 for useless treatments.

GENERALLY, the so-called felony-murder rule has been invoked only in cases of inherently violent crimes, such as robbery. This was one of the major points in the defense case.

Phillips was found guilty by a Superior Court jury of seven men and five women who deliberated 2½ days after a two-week trial. The penalty for the crime is 5 years to life imprisonment.

Chiropractic, which emphasizes spinal misalignment as a source of ailments, is a legally recognized field of therapy in California, and practitioners are licensed; they are forbidden to prescribe drugs, or puncture the skin.

PHILLIPS was first convicted in 1962. The conviction was reversed by the State Supreme Court in May 1966, on the ground that the jury had been improperly instructed regarding the possibility of a manslaughter finding.

The victim, Linda Epping, was afflicted with a malignant eye tumor.

Ho, Ho, Ho and Aloha

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — The Matson Line ship Hawaiian Citizen arrived here Friday to take on a cargo sure to bring smiles to thousands of Hawaiian children — Christmas trees.

The vessel, scheduled to depart Saturday afternoon, will haul some 90,000 trees on the six-day trip to the islands. About two-thirds of them were to be loaded here after general cargo is put aboard.

LONESOME CHRISTMAS

Mom's Alone; Hubby, 3 Sons in Service

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Julia Stillwell's husband and three sons will miss Christmas at their North Carolina home this year because all four are in the armed services.

"I, Sgt. William R. Stillwell, retired from the Air Force in 1963 after 23 years service. He re-enlisted and volunteered for combat duty as the Vietnam war escalated and after his two oldest sons were drafted into the Army last year.

Billy Stillwell, 21, has been serving in Vietnam since March and Bobby Stillwell, 20, received orders this week to depart for the combat zone.

Jack Stillwell, 18, enlisted in the Army Monday.

Mrs. Stillwell, who makes her home at Rt. 2, Goldsboro, said her husband told her in a recent letter: "Maybe Billy and I can be together for Christmas, since you will have the other two boys." He had not learned of Bobby's orders or Jack's enlistment.

Mrs. Stillwell says she has occasional pangs of loneliness but refuses to complain. Her sacrifice, she says, is small when compared to the sacrifices made by her husband and sons and other Americans fighting in Southeast Asia.

She said Billy, in his most recent letter, bolstered her courage when he wrote: "If you could just see what we are fighting for here, you would be able to understand this war. We're so lucky to be living in a free country."

He asked her not to give him anything personal for Christmas this year, but to send some toys for him to distribute to Vietnamese children.

"I'll be glad when it's over," Mrs. Stillwell said, "but I have to admit that I'm proud of them all—that they wanted to serve and are serving."

BURGLAR LEAVES HIS THUMB

CLEVELAND, Tenn. (AP) — The evidence which resulted in Johnny Scrivens' burglary conviction was not his thumb print — but his thumb.

Scrivens, 24, a cook, was sentenced to three years in prison on conviction of burglarizing a store of $125 in merchandise. The sole evidence against him was the tip of a thumb found at the scene.

Officers said the intruder apparently severed his thumb in breaking a plate-glass window. Scrivens was arrested when he sought treatment for a thumb injury.

7 Teens Arrested on Dope Charges

UKIAH (AP) — Five girls and two boys were arrested on the Ukiah High School grounds by Ukiah police on charges varying from selling to possession of marijuana.

The authorities did not identify the teenagers, all of whom were 16, except for one of the boys who was 17.

Stokely Carmichael Returning Home

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — After 40,000 miles or more, a baker's dozen countries and innumerable speeches to Communist audiences, Stokely Carmichael, the Black Power advocate, announced his odyssey would end with his return to hell — "I shall return to hell — that is, the U.S.," said Carmichael, according to a Swedish translation of his remarks in Stockholm, last stop of his five months of travel.

The Stockholm remarks could be considered mild, compared with what Carmichael had to say elsewhere to audiences of Communists who lionized him and rolled out the red carpet for him. To them he was more than just a Black Power advocate. He made himself champion of guerrilla war in the United States.

CARMICHAEL's journey

STOKELY CARMICHAEL
'Goin' Home to Hell' began in July, his first stop England. The Daily Sketch, calling for expulsion of the 26-year-old visitor, quoted him as telling a British audience: "It is time to let the whites know we are going to take over; if they don't like it we will stamp them out, using violence and other means necessary."

Carmichael left England for Fidel Castro's Cuba and a conference of Latin-American Communists weighing prospects for hemisphere-wide revolution. Now the Communists were including the U.S. in calls for "liberation struggle."

Presented by Havana to a news conference, Carmichael announced that the Black Power movement was directly linked with "liberation struggles" everywhere.

"Armed struggle," he said, "is today the only means of struggle by the North American Negro. Our movement is progressing toward an urban guerrilla war within the United States itself."

NEGROES' PROBLEMS, he said, could not be solved "within a capitalist society," and there should be "a struggle for total revolution." For this, Havana radio hailed him as "the greatest North American Negro leader."

Carmichael then left for Communist North Vietnam, where he was greeted with all the ceremony attendant upon arrivals of government leaders. He was received by the premier and other top figures and hailed as a "valiant spirit." In return, Carmichael expressed "warm support for the struggle against the common enemy" and, said Hanoi radio, "his joy and emotion at the militant solidarity... which is bound to win victory" for the Communist Viet Cong.

The U.S., Carmichael told the Vietnamese, "is the greatest destroyer of humanity," and its system had to be changed by violent revolution.

HIS NEXT STOP was Ai-geria. He had, he announced there, come to learn from his "African brethren." He told Algerians "the only possible way for the colored people in the United States is to wage armed struggle to attain their liberation."

There was more of the same at stops in Egypt and Syria. While he was there, Hanoi was broadcasting a tape of his voice advising U.S. troops in South Vietnam that young Americans were refusing to serve in the armed forces.

In mid-October, Carmichael showed up at Conakry, Guinea.

After a few other stops, Carmichael began his homeward journey. In Sweden, he said he expected to be arrested on his return to the U.S., although the State Department said it had no such plans.

Carmichael implied that arrest was precisely what he wanted.

Americans Concerned With Slums

By HUBERT H. HUMPHREY
New York Times Service

Only a few months after the angry summer riots, Americans ask: What impact have they had on thinking about the troubles of our cities and about prescriptions?

I believe public reaction has been remarkably sophisticated. There have been some strident calls for repressive action as the only answer to preventing future outbreaks. Indeed, I think most people — and not least those who live in the explosive slums and are the main victims of violence — want to see provision for a better job of crime and riot prevention and control. The President's safe streets and crime control bill and the firearms control bill reflect this desire.

However, polls taken late last summer, and again within the last few weeks, indicate that a majority of the public recognizes that the riots, lawless though they were, stemmed from intolerable conditions in the slums — inadequate housing and public services, poor schools, discrimination, lack of employment opportunity. These make slum dwellers susceptible to agitation.

MY OWN mail suggests that people know order will be insured only when those now trapped by poverty and discrimination in the inner city feel they have a reasonable stake in American society.

Congress has been hearing strong support for the poverty program — strong enough to avert crippling cuts in the authorization bill; and that support has been coming not only from inner-city residents but from prosperous people who are sincerely concerned about the fate of urban America.

Three mayoral elections last month suggest, too, that the white, middle-class majority of voters has not been frightened into defensive hostility against the Negro communities.

These indicators do not add up to a complete portrayal of American attitudes toward the volatile problem of slumism. But they do suggest that Americans are at least willing to take a dispassionate look at the problems. It means progress is politically possible.

And there has been some

Notre Dame Dean Says Arrest Stokely

New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — Dean Joseph O'Meara of Notre Dame law school said Friday that Stokely Carmichael should be prosecuted for "attempting to sabotage the draft" by advising young Negroes to claim conscientious objector status.

He contended that the black power spokesman "is being protected by his color" from prosecution.

O'Meara, 69, made the progress. Recently, 63 cities received the first Model Cities planning grants. The rent supplement program has made it possible for the private sector to enter the low-cost housing field in a meaningful way.

THE RETURNS from last summer's nationwide Youth Opportunity Program are in, and we find that 1.4 million summer jobs were opened up for youngsters who would otherwise have been on the streets. Millions of others had recreational opportunities which were not available to them before. A much larger youth program is planned for next summer.

Unfortunately, congressional cuts will prevent the war on poverty, model cities and similar federal programs from being as effective as they could be next year.

The shortage of federal funds may be partially offset, however, by the unexpected upsurge of interest on the part of the business community in job training for the unemployed, in improving slum housing, and in extending economic opportunity to disadvantaged people. On the basis of hard-headed economic judgments, businessmen are deciding they can afford to do some of their risk-taking where it will do a great deal of good.

On balance, I think this country is in a mood to move forward toward solving the fundamental problems that led to last summer's riots, and I think we are moving forward.

Looking ahead, it is clear that we are going to have to be ready to invest more money, both through government programs and through the private sector, to get real solutions.

We are also going to have to face up to some difficult problems which have only begun to be solved — statements in an article published in the American Bar Association journal.

In the article, O'Meara contended that Carmichael's speeches against the draft are stronger than the pamphlet published by Charles T. Schenck, a pacifist who was convicted of obstructing the draft in World War I and whose sentence was upheld in a landmark Supreme Court decision.

Draft Card Rite Barred by Attorney

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — U.S. Atty. Cecil Poole said Friday he will not allow a proposed interdenominational service for a turn-in of draft cards on the steps of the Federal Building Monday.

A group of Northern California clergy and laymen had announced plans for such a service after Episcopal Bishop C. Kilmer Myers refused use of Grace Cathedral.

Poole said the law "would not allow this or any other religious service on Federal Building steps."

such as open housing and the need for drastic improvements in educational opportunity for deprived children.

WILL THE summer of 1968 equal the turbulent summer of 1967? Perhaps not, because there may be enough signs of forward motion by then to take the edge off some of the frustrations that exist in slum neighborhoods.

But this country will not be able to face future summers with confidence until we have effectively succeeded in eliminating the unnecessary and unjustifiable inequalities of opportunity that still exist in this rich society.

Looting Erupts in Miami

MIAMI (UPI) — A band of young Negroes trailing the blaring bands of a football game parade went on a brief rampage Friday, snatching purses and grabbing goods from stores in downtown Miami.

Police in patrol cars and on motorcycles flooded the area quickly and sealed off the area into which most of the trouble-makers fled. Officers caught four with loot, three juveniles and one 18-year-old.

The trouble was over in less than an hour.

VOW ANOTHER TRY

Recall Reagan Campaign Fails

FRESNO, Calif. (UPI) — Leaders of an attempt to recall Gov. Ronald Reagan have conceded their campaign to obtain enough signatures has fallen short, but have vowed to try again.

Speaking at a meeting in Fresno Friday, Nancy L. Parr of San Francisco and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Koupal Jr. of Orangevale said they failed to obtain even half the required 780,414 signatures before the Dec. 19 deadline.

They said they had more than 300,000 signatures.

A 30-day wait is required before another attempt is made and they said the second recall effort will start Jan. 15.

The three speakers said Reagan "has proven incompetent in running the state" and attacked the governor for his cutbacks in the Medical, mental health, state college and university programs.

Mrs. Koupal said the new campaign will be successful and will mean Reagan will go to the National Republican Convention "with a recall election pending over his head."

400 PULL

'MILL-IN'

BERKELEY (AP) — About 400 activists staged a "mill-in" Friday at the dean's office of the University of California at Berkeley, then rallied at Sproul Plaza and discontinued operations for the day.

Despite the warnings of Jim Lemmon, the dean of men, they invaded the office and approach corridors on the second floor and made disruptive attempts from midmorning until noon. It was the third mill-in day.

LEMMON SAID they faced disciplinary action "for once again stopping the normal functions" of the office. The demonstrators lounged around desks and partitions.

Friday's demonstration was specifically aimed at the support of seven persons cited for alleged rules violations during protests last month of campus recruiting by Dow Chemical, makers of napalm, and the CIA.

As the demonstrators stuffed themselves into the office, uniformed campus policemen stood on a desk taking pictures of them.

Board Urges 5Pct. Raise for Most of State's Employees

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The State Personnel Board recommended Friday that almost all 115,000 state civil service workers receive a 5 per cent pay increase in the next fiscal year.

In its annual salary report to the Legislature and Gov. Reagan, the five-member board said the raise was needed to match the salaries paid workers in private industry and other public employees.

State workers received their last pay hike in July. Most received a 4.9 per cent raise.

The board also recommended that time-and-a-half wages be paid workers for overtime and that night differentials be provided to civil servants whose counterparts in industry receive such pay.

In addition, the board unanimously recommended that unemployment insurance be extended to cover state workers fired during certain layoffs.

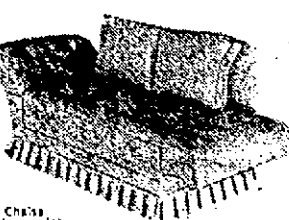

The board also announced its support of a proposal by the Public Employees Retirement System that the state pay the entire cost of each employee's basic health plan.

The board said its survey of California wages showed that salary levels in private industry increased 2.8 per cent from March to October, the largest increase in such a time period since 1959.

New Eviction Law Thrown Out in Court

SALINAS (UPI) — Monterey County Superior Court Judge Gordon Campbell Friday ruled the state's new eviction law was illegal.

The law, passed by the last legislature and backed by the Apartment House Owners Association of California, required that personal property of tenants be seized and stored in eviction actions.

Campbell ruled in the case of two women, Mrs. Kelly Hickinbotham and her daughter, Mrs. Molly Phillips, mother of four who were evicted on a court order Nov. 8 for non-payment of rent.

Sheriff's deputies evicted the women and children and seized their household goods.

Campbell granted a preliminary injunction ordering the sheriff to return the personal property, and enjoined the sheriff from enforcing the eviction statute without first obtaining court costs from the person requesting the eviction. The court's order also enjoined the sheriff from selling any of the personal property seized.

Shooting of Cyclist Ruled Justified Killing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The fatal shooting of a young man by a California Highway Patrol officer during the theft of the officer's motorcycle was ruled justifiable homicide by a coroner's jury Friday.

Henry Irvel Skelley, 20, of Azusa was shot in the back of the head by patrolman Raymond Engler, 30, Nov. 22 as Skelley sped away from Engler's home in Covina. Skelley was accompanied by another motorcyclist, William Lyng, 21, of Azusa, who was critically wounded.

When I saw they were not going to heed my command to halt, I had no alternative but to shoot at them to prevent a felony," Engler testified.

Skelley and Lyng were members of the Calphs, a new disbanded motorcycle club in the Covina-Pomona area.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Crowded court calendars forced the continuation Friday to Jan. 16 of the trial of the 60-year-old widow of Pasadena millionaire Albert Otis Birch on two charges of assault with intent to commit murder.

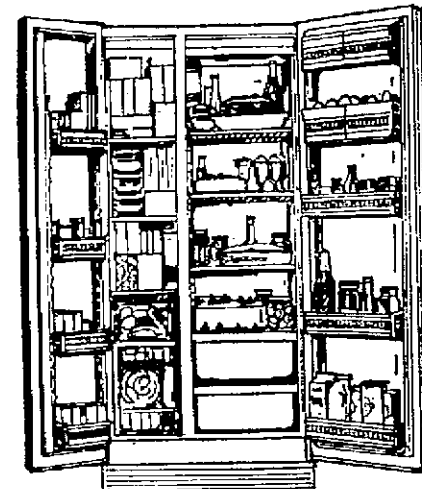

Clerk Frank Springer of Superior Court 108 said that "the courts are just so congested that there isn't any where we can put the trial," adding that neither of the attorneys had sought a continuance.

Pearl Choate Birch, who once served a 12-year prison term in on a murder conviction, is charged with firing a rifle at the relative of a tenant after a July 13 dispute at a Compton apartment she owns.

Little Squirt Gains Lots of Respect

By DAVID SHAW

The burly drunk lunged menacingly toward the police officer — his hand clutching a broken beer bottle, the bottle's jagged edge glistening in the glare of a streetlight.

The officer sidestepped and reached for a weapon. The attacker, expecting to see the muzzle of a .38-caliber revolver, hesitated a split second. That was all the time the officer needed.

He jerked a six-inch-tall, five-ounce tin can from a holster, pressed a button on it twice and his attacker reeled helplessly into the street — his tear-streaked eyes squeezed tight, his hands clawing at his anguished face.

The man had been "Maced."

Mace — its full name is Chemical Mace Mark IV — is a gas manufactured by the General Ordnance Equipment Corp. of Pittsburgh. In recent months, its use has been authorized by scores of police departments from West Covina to West Virginia.

The gas—tear-gas like phenylchloromethylketone — is sprayed from an aerosol can similar to those that carry whipped cream or deodorant.

IT IS NOT lethal, and has no physiological effect. It causes no nausea. It doesn't even stain clothing or leave an oil residue on the skin. Its main effect is forcing the victim to close his eyes. He feels as if his entire face is on fire.

Often, if the gas gets in his mouth or nasal passages, he will have momentary difficulty breathing. This may cause dizziness and knock him to the ground.

The effects of Mace are over within 20 minutes — if the victim washes his face thoroughly with water.

Mace is effective at up to 15 feet. Each can contains enough gas to fire 50 one-second bursts, and the weapon is operative in temperatures ranging from 30 degrees below zero to 130 degrees above.

Law enforcement officials are looking on Mace as the long-sought answer to charges of police brutality, particularly in riot and mass protest situations.

Until Mace, an officer's only weapons have been his nightstick and his gun—both can kill. If the criminal is a murderer, or if he is threatening the officer's life, the officer may feel justified in killing him.

But, legally, the officer may shoot to kill if he "reasonably believes the person at whom he is shooting has committed a felony"—even a felony not punishable by death. Says New York Police Commissioner Harold Leary: "This raises a substantial moral question. Is it proper to take the life of a fleeing felon, who, if caught, tried and convicted, could not be executed?"

Mace — and similar chemical weapons now in limited use — can relieve the policeman of that terrible moral decision. He can incapacitate any lawbreaker, secure in the knowledge his own life will be safe and the lawbreaker will not be permanently disabled.

The testimonials for Mace are resounding from coast to coast. Columbus, Ohio, Police Chief Robert Baus says use of Mace—he calls it "instant apathy"—has reduced attacks on policemen 50 per cent and slashed complaints of police brutality 80 per cent.

New Orleans Police Sgt. Norbel Guertner said a berserk prisoner threatened him with a jail cell toilet, but slumped helplessly to his knees when squirted with Mace.

In one city — Newburgh, N.Y. — the mere presence of Mace cut short a riot. City Manager Paul McCauley said, "We passed the word we had a mysterious new gas. The people heard about it, and they stayed home."

IN OTHER cities — San Francisco, Chicago, Columbus, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, St. Petersburg, Grand Rapids, Cleveland, Dayton, there are more every day — Mace is becoming a standard part of police equipment. Even the FBI and the Canadian Mounted Police are using it.

Though most agencies are using the six-inch aerosol can (which sells for $10.95), many are experimenting with Mace in different forms—including Mark II Miniature Mace, about the size of a fountain pen; and Mark VII chemical baton, a push-button nightstick loaded with the disabling gas.

Mace — powerful but not lethal, fast-acting but not long-lasting, incapacitating to the victim but innocuous to the officer — may be the revolutionary new weapon law enforcement needs to combat the staggering rise in crime and the increasing number of brutality charges.

Like the jeweled magistrate's staff for which it is named, Mace may enable its bearer to operate with dignity, authority and efficiency.

VOLUNTEER GIVEN MACE TREATMENT

Stinging Eyes, Skin... but No Damage

By BILL HAZLETT

That innocent-looking spraycan is as effective as a nightstick clout, but a lot less damaging.

This assessment of law enforcement's newest deterrent weapon — chemical Mace — was made after I volunteered to act as target for a training demonstration for Long Beach police.

A decision to investigate the new Mace—an aerosol haymaker — was reached after the unusual chemical weapon made news by quelling a number of disturbances and winning the praises of police officials.

Arrangements for the test were made by Lt. Don Tubbs, chief of the department's in-service training unit, and Sgt. Bob Decker, veteran patrol officer "volunteered" — almost too eagerly — to repel an attacker with Mace.

To make sure nothing went wrong, Dr. Henry Januszka was on hand for physical tests, and to assess the effectiveness of Mace.

But, after Jim Shattuck, representative of the George F. Calk Co. which distributes Mace, completed his description — "feels like the skin's peeling off your face, or like somebody just slugged you" — the high blood pressure and racing heartbeat, even before the test, caused Dr. Januszka to comment, "he's scared as hell."

He was absolutely right.

Object of the test — being taped for training on the police department's new video-recorder — was for me to attack Sgt. Decker and be repelled by Mace.

As I started toward him, across the squad room, he sidestepped and pointed the spray can at me.

The stream of liquid started toward my face, and I instinctively closed my eyes.

I felt the spray hit my face . . . once, twice, then a third time . . . and that was it.

In a split second a searing wave of heat swept over my face, and tears rushed to my stinging eyes. I stepped back — disoriented — then tried to press the attack.

It was impossible.

When I forced my eyes open, I could see only a red haze, and the pain was severe. My face and neck were burning as though I'd been doused with scalding water.

I managed to hold out for about a minute against the fiery pain, then asked for the wet towel Lt. Tubbs was holding. Water is the best antidote for Mace — I ended up by dunking my head in a bucket of cool water and flushing the chemical from my eyes.

A second examination by Dr. Januszka showed the chemical caused no lasting damage and within an hour all traces of the initial encounter were gone.

The nightstick is an effective weapon, but it cuts, breaks and bruises. A .38-caliber slug from a service revolver — fired at an enraged attacker — maims or kills.

In many instances Mace could do both jobs without killing or injuring, while at the same time protecting the police officer from being disabled in personal combat. The Long Beach Police Department is currently testing Mace in jail facilities.

It could become a standard police sidearm — an effective addition to the law enforcement arsenal.

Queen Must Take Low Bow to Enter Panamanian Harbor

By BILL DUNCAN
Staff Writer

ABOARD RMS QUEEN MARY — Panamanians lining the Balboa breakwater oohed and aahed Friday as the Queen Mary squeezed beneath the Thatcher Ferry Bridge, reaching the next to last stop enroute to her final berth in Long Beach Harbor.

The massive ocean liner — her forward weather-vane removed to enable her to pass beneath the Balboa bridge — was the largest ship Balboa's harbor has ever received, and the city was equal to the occasion despite the close shave beneath the bridge.

"It is going to hit," cried Betty Ridder of Rolling Hills. But it didn't.

The First Isthmian Highlanders bagpipe band was on the dock—along with a big crowd—to greet the big ship, but the Canal Zone government ruled no visitors could board the Queen.

By the time the ship clears Balboa's harbor this afternoon, most of the 1,200 passengers aboard her will be eagerly preparing for Acapulco, next—and last—stop for the luxury liner.

Long Beach Mayor Edwin Wade wasn't able to enjoy the Panama greeting. The mayor has been in bed with bronchitis since the ship left Peru's coastal seaport of Callao.

PHILIP MEISEL

Mrs. Wade had some excitement, anyway, when a large black sea gull flew into their stateroom.

A steward, called to the cabin, evicted the bird.

Two Los Angeles men who went to London with identical purposes are returning to the Southland aboard the Mary.

Philip Meisel, who rode the Queen to England in 1949 in a mission aimed at Israel, met Judge Isaac Pacht aboard the big liner en route home. Both had been in London in another effort to raise capital for the government.

Meisel, who recalled that as an 18-year-old boy in his native Austria, he was pressed into service to battle invading Bolsheviks approaching from Poland—and did so, regards the Queen as a noble vessel that can aid the Southland.

"Long Beach has done a wonderful thing in purchasing the Queen Mary," he said.

FEEDING TIME FOR FOUND CHILD

In police language, there's a lost child and a found child. Manuel Nunez, 2, 352 W. 3rd St., San Pedro, was a found child Friday afternoon at Harbor Division's Juvenile Bureau. Manuel was found carrying a blue plastic nursing bottle, appearing sleepy, hungry and well cared for. Shortly after a feeding by Detective Arlen Hache, Manuel's mother recovered the child. The boy had strayed from his 9-year-old brother while their mother shopped.

No Rats Dance On the Fireboats Anymore

By DICK EMERY

There's a dearth of rats on the San Pedro waterfront these days, and a dearth of cats likewise, but it wasn't always so.

The fishermen remember how it was before the harbor's rat extermination drive went into high gear.

"Those were the old fish-market days," Fireman Spike Burica said, "Over at Boat Two at Berth 228 we were bothered with a plague of rats.

"They'd walk all over the fireboat. They'd eat anything edible and many things that weren't."

He was speaking of halibut times of 15 years ago, before rat-killing went scientific. A fish market left scraps around which fed a lot of rats. Cats were abandoned on the wharves by motorists who thought the cats would have a fine life eating fish and mice.

"The rats killed away the cats," Burica said. "Some cats lasted longer than others. Of course, we got a lot of ships' cats."

"We had a Scandinavian cat that actually went to Narbonne School in a buggy. The kids loved him, once at night at Boat Two, we heard a big command, 'Turn out!'

"This cat had a bunch of rats cornered in a brick incinerator at the station. He needed help."

"The captain splashed some gas into the incinerator. Whoom! But three rats escaped even the explosion and fire."

"We had cats down there from every nationality of ship afloat. They wouldn't last. The rats would get 'em."

"We had one tough old red cat. He lasted a long time. Poor guy! He fought 'em to a standstill. They got one of his ears. He was all scared up. He was game. But they finally got him."

"That was the way it was for a long time, and then the Health Department put out poisons.

"The poisons were a new kind, I suppose kind of like this LSD. The rats would get high on it. They'd dance on the fireboat."

"They'd bring their huddies and they'd all dance. This would go on for two weeks, maybe. By that time the whole rat colony had it. And then they'd all die."

Computer for Christianity

Space-Age Leaders Set Up Missions System

By LES RODNEY

"If your company had a contract to evangelize the world, how would it proceed?"

This question was put in December, 1965 to a group of aerospace executives. The questioners were a team of Christian mission leaders from World Vision, Inc., and Fuller Theological Seminary.

Explains Dr. Ted W. Engstrom, executive vice president of World Vision: "Techniques of world evangelism and missions have changed little for centuries. The population of the world continues to increase at a much greater rate than the Christian population. We knew something new was needed."

For three months, the mission leaders and theologians chewed over the answers they had received to their question. Then they went to work.

TWO YEARS later, the genius of American space age technology is, hopefully, being harnessed to work for Christianity. World Vision has set up a computer system in its Monrovia plant.

Almost needless to say, this is a great big "first."

In a chat last week, project director Edward R. Dayton explained some of the thinking and perspectives of the setup, which is called "Missions Advanced Research & Communication Center" (MARCC).

"What was impossible before is now technically possible," he says. "There is a tremendous information gap to close. We hope to collect facts, conduct research, coordinate research, make our information available to all church mission work, and develop a pilot program for carrying the Christian message to every person in the world in the coming decades."

He readily concedes this is an ambitious perspective. "The church says it's the most important task in the world," he observes. "But just compare the resources and techniques available to its mission, and to reaching the moon."

NOT THAT Dayton is against reaching the moon. He is one of a dynamic new breed of scientist-religious workers who make MARCC feasible.

A long-time active lay leader, who has been a Sunday School superintendent, elder and Bible teacher, Dayton was engineering section head for aircraft flight instruments at Sperry Gyroscope of New York, until he moved to Lear Siegler Inc. in Michigan. There he was in charge of Aircraft, Missile and Computer systems. In 1964, utilizing a Ford Foundation New Careers Fellowship, he came to Pasadena Fuller Theological Seminary in Pasadena as a student, while continuing his connection with Lear Siegler, for whom he handled the task of applying aerospace management skills to the less sophisticated business of heating and air conditioning. In '66, he resigned to take over direction of MARCC.

Exactly how will a computer work its magic to aid missions?

"Whoa," he said. "Let's knock out that idea right away. There's nothing magic about a computer. It's just a fast, dumb machine. We have a little saying to remind us of that — GIGO. Means garbage in garbage out."

"WE WILL COLLECT information gathered in all mission fields. We will encourage and direct hard research projects, get a profile of the people you must work with in different situations. It's along the same lines as this dating game computer work in one sense, or, more apply, the skills program at North American, to suit the job to the man."

"Who are the people who have been reached, and are yet to be reached? What are the cultural differences which must be taken into account, this needs much research. Their psychology, what motivates them, not only theological questions but sociological, anthropological, political and economic data. Yes, how God is working."

"The computer permits us to ask the questions about growth trends ... and get answers."

A 2½-year pilot program is under way centering on Brazil, with government cooperation. It will be evaluated as a model for the world. Under way at the same time are a Missionary Information Bureau, with printing and computer addressing of bulk mail, and a monthly information newsletter to initially 1,500 churchmen.

WORKING WITH Dayton at the MARCC center are systems manager Edward L. Gruman, former systems engineer with Bellcomm, Inc., and John Stewart, systems analyst and programmer, both also divinity students. An advisory board includes Edward B. Lindaman, manager of the Apollo Interdivisional project for North American Rockwell Corp. (and leader of the pioneering United Presbyterian Church's Theonetics forums).

Funds come from foundations, grants and individuals. World Vision itself is a well known evangelical mission organization headed by the dynamic Dr. Bob Pierce.

Won't there be some criticism about "computerizing" missionary work, dehumanizing it, etc. etc.?

"Yes," Dayton answered with a smile. "I've heard someone say, 'You're trying to do the work of the Holy Spirit.' They don't understand the processes. I think when someone says that, he assumes we're going to decide ahead of time about the answers, then throw a switch and get production line Christians."

"We're simply trying to speed up the processes of gathering and making available the necessary data for missions to work on. Without using modern means, we're being outdistanced by population. We believe God's world is one world, including science. We've been challenged — man, use those brains you've got! Use those God given capacities."

Technical changes and advances frighten some people, Dayton supposes.

"But who," he asks, "outside of a Christian, is more ready for change? The past is forgiven, the future secure."

A Reply to Dr. Booth on Middle East

Dear Religion Editor:
May I reply to your report on the sermon by Dr. John Booth in your issue of Nov. 11.

"Territory was never 'wrenched from the Arabs' to establish Israel. For years before the U.N. decided to establish a Jewish state, the land on which the state was founded was bought and paid for at a price often many times its value. Malarial swampland at Hadera and sand dunes at Tel Aviv were purchased from rich Arab landowners at 10 times their value."

"In the past," says Dr. Booth, "they (the Arabs) had received them (the Jews) most hospitably when they fled from persecution." This "past" was prior to 1492! Would that we could return to that golden age of Arab scholarship and civilization. Israel is ever ready to try.

But in modern times, far being "a people who had never directed pogroms against the Jews," as stated in the article, the Arabs attacked peaceful Jewish settlements and cities in 1920, 1921, 1929 and from 1936 to 1939. Pillage, murder, persecution and exile are now the lot of the Jews in Arab lands.

In Israel itself, there have been hundreds of small, but well organized attacks and incursions. The Arabs have attacked their Jewish neighbors three times in open warfare with the publicly announced intention of killing every Jewish man, woman and child — in 1948, 1956 and 1967. The major '56 and '67 wars were organized and supplied by the Russians in an attempt to destroy the Jews and drive out all U.S. influence in the area. Israel has been fighting our war over there. If not for Israel, Hussein would have fallen long ago and the whole

SCIENTISTS WANT IT STRAIGHT

When Rev. George C. Serbe Jr. became pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Resurrection near Cape Kennedy, Fla., he thought he'd need to tailor the church message especially for space-oriented technologists. But it turned out differently.

After extensive intimate talks with members of his "moonport" congregation, with its heavy concentration of engineers and other scientists, he concluded "from what they told me that they needed basic, simple" exposition of Christian theology.

While they were highly educated in electronics and similar fields, he said, many of them emphasized that they were "biblically and theologically illiterate," he said in a report to his denomination, the Lutheran Church in America.

Instead of his being asked to make his approach more academically sophisticated, he said, "several of the young engineers asked me to give them more time" on basics to help "bridge the gap between their scientific or analytical training and their consideration of more abstract religious terms."

"THE BIBLE SPEAKS TO YOU"

Sunday KFI 7:45 A.M. KMPC 8:

Advent, Denominations, and Anti-Communist Kit

For several weeks the main thoroughfares have twinkled in their colored lights, and the department store aisles have noticeably thickened with smart shoppers (as opposed to us Hairbreadth Harrys who get clapped with the frantic "BUY SOMETHING" mobs on Dec. 24).

But in the churches it begins this Sunday, start of the season of Advent. This is actually the first of the seasons of the Christian year. Historically the great Festivals were provided with a series of additional days for contemplation and preparation. So with the Feast of Our Lord's Nativity, Christmas, Advent simply means "coming." The Advent season consists of the four Sundays preceding Christmas Day. Its sometimes forgotten significance (preserved in the churches) lies in spiritual preparation for the celebration of the climactic event which transformed all history, the Coming of Jesus.

Dr. Donald O'Connor of First Methodist adds this dimension: "It is the season of looking forward and of remembering God's promise to make Himself known through His Son." Dr. H. David Burcham of Covenant Presbyterian also stresses the thought of using the Advent season to explore the central teaching of the occasion. "It is the implications of His coming that we try to celebrate in the Christian church during these weeks."

CHRISTIANITY has entered a "post-denominational age," according to Quaker theologian Dr. D. Elton Trueblood of Earlham College, writing in the conservative fortnightly Christianity Today.

No point in attacking denominations, he holds. They "are not evil... They simply are not very important. There is no harm in their continued existence, and they may do some good that would not be done otherwise. But they are no longer in the central Christian stream."

Stating his pride and gratitude for his Quaker heritage "to which I will always adhere," Dr. Trueblood adds, "But I cannot be loyal to it if I am loyal to it alone... Most of the Christians whom I most respect today recognize clearly that it is the total cause of Christ to which they are loyal."

Reminding that denominations are only about 400 years old, he says this is "only a fraction of Christian history," which "has already come to an end." When people move today, he notes, they often "change their denominational affiliation with ease."

EXPRESSING his view that renewal, not formal union, is the most immediate pressing need for Christianity, Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, head of the World Council of Churches, said in a recent Southland interview: "I've often said I'm not interested in combining a lot of dead churches into one. That way you get a cemetery."

SOUTHERN Baptists nationally have been conducting a survey on their churches' ministry to downtown areas in large cities. With blunt honesty, they conclude that the typical church "is not meeting the challenge of the problems of poverty, loss of neighborhood pride, crime and delinquency, and personal maladjustment" in the inner city.

The survey cited such statistics as: 83 per cent of their churches "offer no ministry to Negro Baptists," 78 per cent do not offer family counseling, 88 per cent do not operate child care clinics, 63 per cent do not have literacy or remedial reading classes.

While the survey deliberately emphasizes the negative, if you turn those figures around, it might surprise some folks to learn that 17 per cent of Southern Baptist churches in big city areas DO have Negro

5-DAY MEET

Dr. Norman W. Conner, prominent evangelist and Christian campus leader from Texas, will speak each evening, Sunday through Friday, in "One Great Week" of meetings at First Christian Church in Norwalk, Studebaker and Leffingwell Roads. "Electronic" music will be brought at 7:30 each night by Dwight Good, of Roy Rogers Chorus and Armed Forces Radio & TV Network. Event climaxes three months of neighborhood evangelistic visitations by congregation.

East Side 'Hanging'

There'll be the "hanging of the green" Sunday night in a special service at East Side Christian Church, Seventh Street and Obispo Avenue, with the young people having gathered live greenery to decorate the church for the Christmas season. Rev. Paul McBride, pastor, will join the resourceful youth in the 7:30 p.m. service.

Peale Hits Mark Again

ENTHUSIASM MAKES THE DIFFERENCE. By Norman Vincent Peale. Prentice-Hall, Inc. $4.95.

Do you accept a humdrum, unhappy life without making a fight for a better one? If so, you need to learn how enthusiasm can add new spark to your life.

Dr. Norman Vincent Peale very vividly outlines how to go about it in his latest literary effort that rates as a companion piece to his best-seller, "The Power of Positive Thinking."

The preacher-author, whose column appears weekly in the Independent Press-Telegram, tells how enthusiasm makes the difference between success and failure.

Positive thinking is how you think about a problem. Enthusiasm is how you feel about a problem. And the two together determine what you do about a problem.

Dr. Peale advises how you can make yourself en-

Cities Firm on Freeways

West Orange County cities stood firm Friday in support of their favorite routing for the proposed Huntington Beach Freeway, and none accepted an alternate link offered by the state's highway engineers at a Huntington Beach hearing.

Westminster, Stanton and Buena Park spoke for the so-called Orange Route, the most costly, and the route which would displace the most families — east of Beach Blvd.

Huntington Beach, Garden Grove and Fountain Valley favored the Red Route or variations of it, which includes a Green Route — both west of Beach Boulevard.

Highway engineers offered an alternate segment to the Green Route, which roughly parallels Golden West Street from Garfield Avenue in Huntington Beach to Bolsa Avenue in Westminster.

The Red Route would parallel the Pacific Electric Railway tracks near Gothard Street in Huntington Beach, and Hoover Street in Westminster. It would cost $81.6 million, be 6.6 miles long and displace 1,321 families.

The Green Route would cost $79.2 million, be 6.4 miles long and displace 1,021 families.

The Orange Route would cost $82.7 million, be 7.4 miles long and displace 1,321 families.

It was the last of two hearings. Engineers held an earlier one June 22, when routes were outlined. Their selection will be a compromise based on engineering and cost factors, they said.

Mart furniture stores

All the so-called experts tell us nobody buys furniture for Christmas. We know better. All it takes is the most fabulous year-end furniture clearance sale this town has ever seen.

Plenty of furniture places, they put on a brave show during the holiday season. All kinds of tinsel and glitter, plastic snow and mock holly. As the saying goes, it wouldn't help. Everybody hurries on by, to get to the gift stores. Here at Mart, we're furniture realists. For every one person who likes to look at tinsel, there are hundreds who'd rather make big savings at whopping discounts on tables and chairs and sofas and sectionals that if they were still the same old prices they'd wait until next month for. Maybe the grammar isn't so good, but the meaning is clear: SALE! Year-end Clearance Sale on every piece of furniture we've got. Out it all goes, out, out, out. So we can start '68 with a clean slate. This is your invitation: come to our Sale. Today, tomorrow, this week-end, soon as you can. Cash, budget terms, BankAmericard, Master Charge. The way you like to buy is the way we like to sell.

IDAHO CHOKES ON OWN MEDICINE

Trojans Cool Hot Potatoes

By LOEL SCHRADER

Although lacking in artistry, USC's basketball team accomplished its mission in Friday night's opener at the Los Angeles Sports Arena.

It won, 59-50, over a resourceful Idaho team that choked on its own medicine in the final 10 minutes. Up to that point the Vandals had clung to the Trojans with a zone defense that profited from poor shooting by USC.

With 10 minutes remaining, the Trojans threw a zone of their own at the Vandals, and suddenly Idaho lost its poise and momentum.

It was no contest after USC outscored the Vandals, 11-2, during a six-minute stretch.

The Trojans face Loyola at 8 o'clock tonight in the same arena. The Lions should pull in more than the 1,664 fans who witnessed the opener.

USC's leading scorer from last year Bill Hewitt, scored 26 points and grabbed 17 rebounds. This was below his opening performance last December when he poured in 39 against UCLA and Lew Alcindor, but the 6-foot-7 leaper showed better control of his talents.

Idaho coach Wayne Anderson got 100 per cent out of his talent, wisely playing a control game against the Trojans, who had an obvious physical advantage.

Swift guard Jim Johnson led the Vandals with 16 points, and smartly directed their offense and defense strategy.

The Trojans won despite the absence of guard Steve Jennings, who has his right foot in a cast and may miss at least the next three weeks of action.

Trojan coach Bob Boyd said he might consider holding his star guard out for the entire season if the injury keeps Jennings sidelined into the Pacific Eight schedule.

"He's too good a guard to sit out a large portion of a season," said Boyd. "He deserves a full year of competition."

Boyd expressed satisfaction with the Trojan performance, although disappointed in his team's shooting.

"Losing Jennings disrupted the team," said Boyd. "I don't think our offense was the problem. It was just poor shooting that hurt us."

USC shot 29.7 per cent in the first half and wound up with 35.3 per cent on 24 field goals in 68 attempts. Idaho made 18 of 50 shots for 36 per cent.

Boyd noted the difference in reaction to Friday night's Trojan performance and their losing 105-90 effort against UCLA in the 1966-67 opener.

"We got congratulated for a great performance while losing last year," he said. "But there doesn't seem to be satisfaction with our showing in this game."

"To win is the most important thing, and that is what we did."

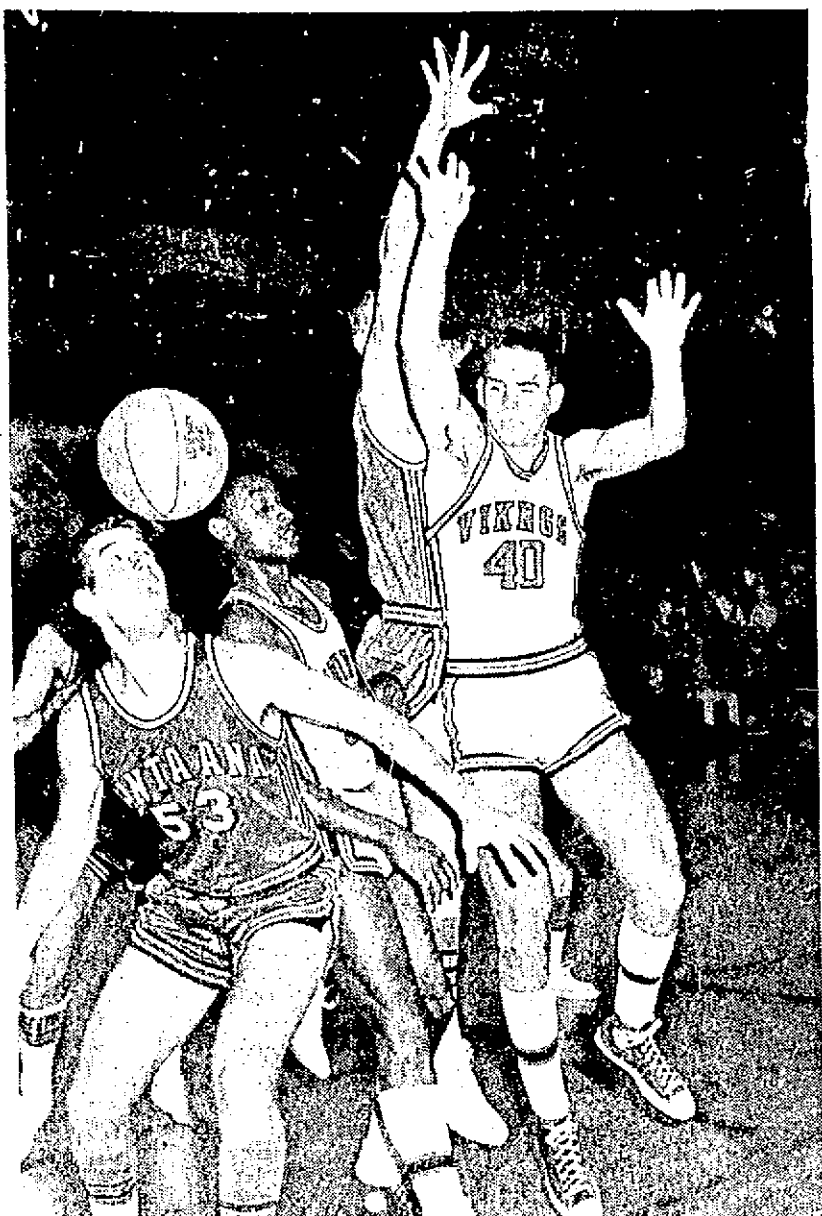

So did the talented Trojan freshmen, who demolished Antelope Valley College, 102-74, with former El Segundo star Dana Pagett scoring 31 points for the Trojans.

Nominate Billie Jean for Sullivan Award

Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., has won almost every honor open to a tennis player, and today she is in contention for one of the biggest of them all.

She is one of 14 nominees for the Sullivan Award, which annually is presented to the outstanding amateur athlete in the United States.

The queen of Wimbledon tennis joins six other women in the balloting by 600 sportswriters and AAU members — 15-year-old swimmer Debbie Meyer of Sacramento, half-mile Charlotte Cooke of Los Angeles, figure skater Peggy Fleming, diver Miki King, gymnast Linda Metheny, and synchronized swimmer Margo McGrath.

Male nominees are shotputter Randy Matson of Texas A&M, wrestler Larry Kristoff, walker Ron Laird, weightlifter Joe Puleo, swimmer Mark Spitz, boxer Jim Wellington, and 400-meter hurdler Ron Whittington.

Last year miler Jim Ryan of Kansas U. won the award, one of the most coveted in sports.

The Sullivan Award will be presented on Feb. 22 in Los Angeles.

Decisive Victory for LBCC

By DAVE DANIEL

Long Beach City College, gradually picking up speed, outdistanced Santa Ana College 114-93 Friday night in the Viking gym before fewer than 700 fans.

The win avenged only one of two Viking losses of last season, a two-point loss to Santa Ana and gave coach Chuck Kane's squad a 2-1 mark which it will try to better tonight.

Taking no rest, the Vikings travel to Antelope Valley Junior College in Lancaster for an 8 p.m. tip-off, the third game of the week for LBCC.

Friday night's contest was close only for the first few minutes. The Vikings pulled ahead, 21-20, with 13:12 to play in the first half. They slowly built the lead to 62-43 at the half, and stretched that to 27 points in the second half.

Kane got steady performances from all three of his returning lettermen.

Gary Zeller garnered high-point honors with 26 — 21 of them in the first half. The Z was backed by Shawn Johnson, who added 21 points, and Ken Booker with 14.

Kane emptied his bench midway through the first half.

Santa Ana never gave up, but couldn't handle the defense-minded Vikings, who controlled both boards, with Booker and freshman Jon Borchert hauling down misses in the first half, and Kirby Gordon and Brian Berger doing the same in the second half.

Every Viking except one scored, including Steve Leibeck, playing his first varsity game since moving up from the freshman team.

In the preliminary, the freshmen dropped their first game, 60-51, to Compton's Leuder's Park team.

Russell-led Celtics Edge Lakers, 123-119

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Celtics employed a balanced attack, led by player-coach Bill Russell, and retained their one-game Eastern Division lead over Philadelphia by nipping the Lakers, 123-119, Friday night.

With both teams hitting, the Celtics led, 37-36, after one period; 71-69 at the half, and 101-99 at the three quarter mark. The Celtics scored three straight baskets at the outset of the finale and clung to the lead the rest of the way.

The Lakers battled back to within two points, but a free throw by Russell and a pair by Sam Jones in the final minute protected Boston's 16th triumph in 21 starts.

Texans 9-Point Choice Over Valley St. in Jr. Rose Bowl

By JIM McCORMACK

The Junior Rose Bowl has never had a bad day in its 21-year history, a claim it will not be able to make by 6 p.m. tonight.

The 22nd renewal of the nation's fifth largest bowl game has been caught in between.

Last winter, after 21 years, it was cast adrift by California junior colleges which favored statewide playoffs. Anxious not to lose a year, the Pasadena Junior Chamber of Commerce hooked up with the CCAA and approached the NCAA with a bid for its sanction.

The NCAA gave the game its blessing without forcing it to wait the usually required one year.

Because of that the Junior Rose Bowl must suffer. This year, and this year only, it will not have the CCAA champion as its Western representative.

Because of that, many of the Eastern candidates refused the invitation.

Consequently, Valley State, which tied for second with Cal State Long Beach and Fresno State in the CCAA, will meet third-choice West Texas State in today's 2 p.m. contest.

The Buffaloes from Canyon, Tex., are favored by nine points to turn back the Matadors.

In an area where USC was 9-1 and the national champion, UCLA was 7-2-1 and missed the title by two points and the Rams have lost just once in 17 games, the Junior Rose Bowl doesn't appear exciting to many.

It's too bad. It will be an entertaining ball game. Valley State has a quarterback who threw 27 touchdown passes, a CCAA record, in nine games. West Texas State has a halfback who finished second only to Heisman trophy runnerup O. J. Simpson among the nation's collegiate ball carriers.

NL Votes Expansion; Seattle Franchise OKd

By ROSS NEWMAN

Staff Writer

MEXICO CITY — For the nominal sum of $5,350,000, the American League awarded a 1969 franchise to Seattle Friday and the National League voted to expand not later than 1971.

These were the developments as the winter meetings closed:

—The price of an American League franchise has increased almost 150 per cent since Gene Autry spent $2,100,000 in 1961.

—Pacific Northwest Sports Inc., was presented the Seattle franchise on a conditional basis—the stipulation being that a stadium bond issue, previously defeated twice, is passed in February.

—Four groups bidding for the Kansas City franchise, which also begins operation in 1969, will be heard again by the American League screening committee on Dec. 14 with the winner being announced on Jan. 11.

—While the National League, under the American League's gun, refused to yield, there is strong evidence that the senior circuit will also expand in 1969.

This was the National League's statement:

"The National League has unanimously decided to expand not later than 1971 into two cities with ownership meeting the conditions now being prepared."

Those conditions—stadium, finances, etc., are currently being formulated by Chub Feeney of the Giants and Ron Hofheinz of the Astros.

It is ironic that Feeney is a close friend of Buzzie Bavasi, who will become co-owner if San Diego is approved, while Houston's Hofheinz is bitterly opposed to a franchise in Dallas-Fort Worth.

Hofheinz, however, will be lucratively indemnified and, as of Friday, Dallas-Fort Worth and San Diego are expected to gain approval which must be unanimous.

Buffalo, Denver, Montreal, Milwaukee and Toronto are also in the running, but San Diego and Dallas-Fort Worth appear to have a lock.

C. Arnholt Smith, the financial catalyst behind the San Diego bid, told this paper: "We are satisfied with the progress made here. All we wanted was a definite word from the National League that it is going to expand."

"We have the stadium and the money. We will beat out opposition."

Whereas Autry paid $75,000 per player—remember Ray Semproch, Ned Garver, Julio Becquer, Gene Leck—Seattle and Kansas City are being Guard Darrell Millner and Center Mike Heckman took turns dropping in shots against the 49er defense, and the Anteaters methodically moved out in front.

Millner had 8 points and Heckman added 10, while Long Beach was getting single baskets from Dick Nelson and John Broeske.

Long Beach made what turned out to be a token rally with 9 minutes remaining. Three free throws and a basket by Broeske cut the deficit to 10. Two scores by Bob Stephens and another by Dan Marksbury trimmed the margin to 7 with 5:30 remaining.

Long Beach lost its momentum quickly, however, as Irvine got a gift basket on a goal-tending call and Heckman equalized another Marksbury basket with a rebound shot.

Nelson's shooting and passing helped Long Beach get within five once, 60-64, but the pressing 49ers fouled often enough to eliminate hopes of victory.

Heckman was the difference. The Anteater led all scorers with 25 points and 15 rebounds. He made 11 of the 18 shots he took from the field. His rebounding helped Irvine hold a 49-41 team advantage.

Nelson led Long Beach with 16 points, and reserve forward Stephens had 10, eight in one three-minute span late in the second half.

Starting guard Rick Mancibo and Mike Montgomery scored 11 points for Long Beach.

The 49er Frosh lost the prelin, 85-69.

Navy's Passing Key Hope Against Favored Cadets

United Press International

"Steady as she goes!"

That's naval seamanship terminology for keeping the ship on a direct course, but it might just as well be the battle cry for the Navy football team today when it tangles with Army in the traditional inter-service game at Philadelphia's John F. Kennedy Stadium.

The Midshipmen, who haven't defeated the Cadets since 1963, have been careful this week not to get over-emotional for today's game and figure they must keep a steady grip on themselves if they are to upset the favored Cadets, one-touchdown favorites.

Coach Bill Elias moved his troops through a lighter work schedule than usual this week while emphasizing the importance of keeping a cool head against the talented Cadets.

The Navy player who will have to keep the cool head is quarterback John Cartwright, for with-out a top performance from the senior signal-caller, the Midshipmen have little chance of winning.

Cartwright has been sensational this season. He has completed nearly 52 percent of his passes and tossed for nine touchdowns. He has broken several of Roger Staubach's career records, including most touchdowns passes (25).

Navy does not have much of a running game, so the burden lies with Cartwright. He has a standout receiver in Rob Taylor, who had grabbed 35 passes, but this combination will get a severe test from the Army defense, which has intercepted 25 passes this season.

Army is by far the better team on paper. The Cadets have compiled a fine 8-1 record and have good offensive balance and a fast and aggressive defense, which has limited opponents to only 8.3 points per game.

Elias has made some drastic changes in his secondary this week in hopes of putting added pressure on the passing of Army quarterback Steve Lindell. Navy, which has shown a marked weakness on pass defense, will employ three defensive backs who have played only 75 minutes between them this year.

Odds mean nothing. The whole season for both academies rests on this one game and the series has been characterized by some famous upsets. Army leads, 32-29, in the series, which began in 1890. There have been six ties.

Only a handful of games, all of them traditional rivalries, are scheduled for today's final week of college football.

The only other game in the east pits Boston College at Holy Cross and that one is rated a tossup.

Three of the games will be in the South, where Tennessee meets Vanderbilt, Alabama takes on Auburn and Mississippi faces

ANGEL EXEC IN LINE FOR SEATTLE JOB

MEXICO CITY — This newspaper was told Friday that Marvin Milkes, vice-president of the California Angels, has been offered the position of general manager with the Seattle franchise, which conditionally joins the American League in 1969.

Milkes was extended the bid by Max and Dewey Soriano shortly after the AL approved Seattle for '69 membership, providing a stadium bond issue is passed in February.

Milkes has been greatly responsible for the resurgence of baseball interest in the Pacific Northwest through his handling of the Angels' Pacific Coast League affiliate in Seattle. —Ross Newhan.

ABA Sued for Raids on Minors

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Eastern Basketball League will file a $1,500,000 damage suit Monday against the American Basketball Assn. for raiding its players, EBL president Harry Rudolph announced Friday.

Rudolph's announcement came after the EBL, a minor league in operation for the past 22 years, won its second lawsuit in as many days against the newly founded ABA, a major league operation trying to compete with the National Basketball Assn.

In Pittsburgh Friday, a judge ruled that Lavern Tart of the Oakland Oaks is actually the property of the Wilkes-Barre Barons of the EBL, and he was banned from playing for the Oaks the rest of this season. In Houston Thursday, a federal judge ruled that Willie Somerset of the Houston Mavericks still belongs to the Scranton Miners of the EBL.

Rudolph revealed that the ABA raided the EBL of its top 10 scorers last season and most of its all-star players without buying their contracts from the EBL teams.

"This is in direct contrast to the NBA procedure, they've paid from $5,000 to $7,500 for the contracts to players like Freddie Crawford and Ray Scott over the past few years," Rudolph said. "We've always enjoyed a good relationship with the NBA but the ABA just stole our players."

However, the highlight of the day's activity was achieved by 23-year-old Bill Bowrey of Australia, who whipped countryman Roy Emerson 6-4, 13-11, 6-4 in a men's singles semi-final match.

Bowrey, who had never before beaten Emerson, took advantage of the soft court at the Kooyung Club and completely befuddled the favored Emerson. Bowrey revolved in the conditions and frequently passed Emerson with sizzling backhand shots.

Bowrey will meet countryman Tony Roche in the finals. Roche whipped Barry Phillips-Moore 6-4, 8-6, 7-5 in the other semi-final match.
